The sound of people talking,

August 27, 1973

feet shuffling,

and lockers slamming reawakened CAHS to a new school year.

Students and teachers alike rehashed their summer experiences and vacations. One just could not seem to understand how quickly the summer went by.

For many, this year brought to a close a high school career and many memories, and yet for others it was only the beginning of one and many fond memories to come.

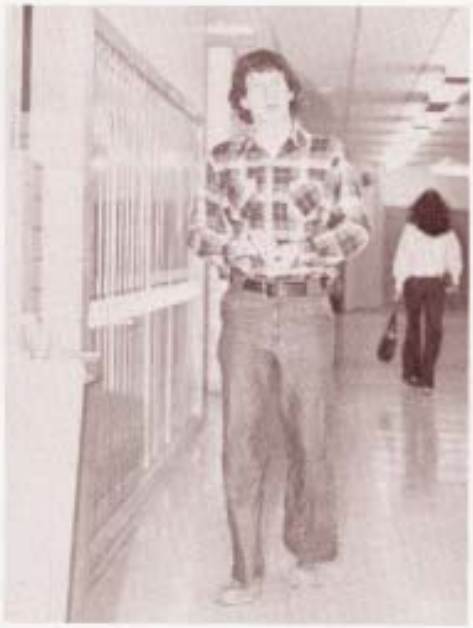
As I watched the year go past, I saw the students' many expressions: frustration, joy, sadness, boredom, determination, and excitement. I began to wonder what they had planned for the year. How much would they make of it, but then—how much would they try to?



Then each person was alone, a separate piece in a confused jumble, and I hoped that they would be able to 'get it all together' and work toward a meaningful year. This book is to help you decide whether or not they did.

HERE 'n THERE

Along with the beginning of school came pep rallies, football games,

and snake dances.

Then senior pictures rolled around.

But we had to keep up with our classes . . . or else!

Gym classes kept us in shape,

but we still had some time to waste.

And so did our teachers!

But there is more at CAHS. Follow us!

It was 1086 days from seventh grade to our senior year. The number seemed insurmountable, but it went by much too fast. Along with them went many memories: pep rallies, sports, classes, balls, homecomings, sad days and happy ones.

As quickly as we entered, we left. But if we left knowing that we tried and succeeded to 'get ourselves together', becoming one - the class of '74, but still remaining individuals, it was a great accomplishment.

High school is perhaps the greatest influence on a person's concepts and motives during life. These short years help a student realize his capabilities, limits, and ambitions. Of course high school lessons cannot and should not impress unchanging ideas of life on a student, but it can surely help students to 'get themselves together' and to make these important decisions for themselves.

It is hard to understand those who feel these years are not worthwhile. Even for students who are not able to appreciate the necessity of this education, the experiences of high school may make more of an impression on them than they can ever realize.

We got some sinister looks from this Chemistry class!

Teaching should never be just a job, but a deep interest and devotion in attempting to educate and understand students. Teachers and administrators are not there only for teaching, but for helping students 'get themselves together' when they do not know where to turn. It is their teaching, discipline, helpfulness, and participation that make an educational system succeed.

Along with the beginning of each sport's season came grueling practices, future predictions, and each player's hope to become an outstanding star in his field. As the seasons progressed and sights turned to championships, practices became even more grueling, predictions became louder, and each team member thought nervously of forgetting himself to put his team

It is always easy to find the star in sports but one must search deeper to fully comprehend what makes the star a star. Credit can be given solely to the outstanding player for the efforts behind him unseen and too often unappreciated by the team working together, that makes the star

C. Bane threw the javelin in the girls' field events.

M. Zban fixes her spikes before going to the field.

A new sight at the CAHS track in the spring was girls running, jumping hurdles, practicing relays, and learning techniques of discus, javelin, and shot put throwing.

With interest in girls' sports growing, a group of energetic girls appealed to the school board to grant money for the formation of a girls' track team. Seeing that the desire was great, the board approved it, and a team was formed. Competing with larger and more experienced schools, the girls did not win their meets but gained much-needed experience for the future. SCORES: CAHS 17, Waynesburg 97; CAHS 15, Trinity 98.

Girls gather in the lobby, preparing to leave for an away meet.

C. Stajnrajh's third throw proves to be her best.

SENIORS: Row 1: R. Koratich, M. Fuller, B. Babyak Row 2: B. Oros, D. Menhart, R. Morris

R. Bosco pulled ahead of his opponents with this throw.

D. Menaart took first place in the County Meet in high jump.

K. Lasko, triple jump–third in Tri-County, first in County Meet.

B. Oros heaves the shot put as opponents look on.

R. Tennant races through the finish line.

D. Stevulak, 1 mile run, third in county.

D. Polander grits his teeth after completing a fine long jump.

M. Ritz (left) and R. Morris competed in discus throwing.

H. Berardi and Coach Christy come off the field after a pre-game warm-up.

J. Moore stops his warm-up to see what's happening on the field.

K. Titus gets behind a sharply hit ground ball.

D. Prodan looks back at the following runner as he scores.

Girls Form Softball Team

L. Kostak waits for the pitch that will bring in needed runs.

Another first in girl's sports was the formation of a softball team. All interested sophomore, junior, and senior girls, with the coaching of Mr. Koontz, met daily for practices. Although it was not a school sponsored activity, the girls played the game with strong team unity and a knack for having fun. SCORES: CAHS 23, West Greene 11; CAHS 5, Beth Center 15; CAHS 2, Beth Center 3.

Along with the hits come a few strikes, as L. Paletta finds out.

A solid hit gives S. Smith a single.

S. Busti eyes the ball as it arcs to the plate.

President, J. Yeash recognizes a member.

Not all Student Council meetings are in perfect harmony.

A student's life should not stop with tests, grades, class work, and books, because the memories of a student are not formed only in classrooms, but after school and the short time between classes. The memories and life of a student include being with others, growing with and understanding friends, and participating in extra-curricular activities. Students 'getting it together' with other students transform high school from a dull brick building into an enjoyable life experience.

When Spring Arrives . . .

King Bob Morris and Queen Arta LaRue reigned over May Day activities.

As Bob and Arta exited, 1974 May Day became a memory.

May Day Program Honors

Senior girls did the traditional May Pole dance.

N. Milbrad concentrated on a perfect selection.

L. Paletta and M. Kanopsky played a variety of songs.

P. Whoolery was totally involved in her song.

A quartet of guitars and voices entertained the May Day audience.

Queen and Her Court

C.A.H.S. stage band was under the direction of Frank Ricco.

C. Bailey's piano pieces were enjoyed by all.

C. Grimm (left) and D. Katusa had trumpet solos with the stage band.

Our majorettes performed routines to the music of the stage band.

Remember . . .

Before the prom began, couples waited for their dinners to be served.

A bird's-eye view of smiling couples at the Uniontown Country Club.

A prom queen, king, and senior attendants were chosen by the teachers, who pulled the names of the lucky winners. Row 1 (l. to r.): C. Biddle, senior class pres.; T. Hoyle, king; J. Hixon, queen; J. Menhart, senior class sec.; S. Smith, senior class treas. Row 2 (l. to r.): D. Sova, A. Yasenosky, S. Busti, M. Fuller, senior attendants.

Couples danced to the music of Dusty Rhodes and his orchestra.

C. Bryte and her date enjoy just watching the other couples.

After the meal, couples relaxed before dancing.

With the help of a mirror, one easily sees the joy this pair shares.

G. Brand and D. Menhart look at previous portraits while waiting for theirs to be taken.

Mary Bialko Is 1974 Representative

N. Shoaf does a graceful curtsy for the Coal Queen judges.

C. Bailey's radiant smile is a judge-pleasing quality.

B. Stuvek addresses the faculty members.

Points are accumulated by J. Pratt as she executes a flawless routine.

M. Bialko displays the poise needed to be a Coal Queen Candidate.

As Mary is pronounced the winner, the others share in her happiness.

1973 Candidates Poised and Talented

C. Biddle was not uneasy as she gave her short talk.

N. Milbrad informed the faculty of her future plans.

Carolyn Biddle Representative As Coal Queen Candidate

In the gown competition, it was difficult to choose a winner.

M. Chambers' costume complemented her dance.

N. Shipe's talent was unmistakable as she sang.

New Doors Begin To Open

Seniors were more enthused at having their classmates rather than outsiders, address them.

C. Biddle, Sr. Class Pres. presented a speech entitled "Those Were The Days".

J. Barron gladly accepted his diploma from Mr. Bacan.

Student Council Pres., J. Yeash, spoke of compassion.

Valedictorian S. Smith also gave a speech.

B. Yelinek was congratulated as she was awarded her diploma.

Seniors remained standing as the processional continued.

With the change of the tassels, the Class of 1974 became alumni.

It isn't easy to leave 12 years of fun and friendships.

Graduates gathered after commencement exercises to discuss future plans.

We did it! As the final deadline nears, there is pride and satisfaction at the realization that the 1974 staff has produced a book that has more than paid for itself. At the beginning of this undertaking it seemed an impossibility, but with the hard work and cooperation of the business staff, the community, and the entire Jr.-Sr. High, we succeeded. In any successful project there are many to be thanked but our patrons deserve a special thanks. Without their support we would not have been able to 'get it all together'.

YOU CAN WRITE

There's no better way to earn success than to develop the habit of systematic saving. So many successful people learn to be consistent savers early in their lives. By building up a substantial reserve, you are ready to make the most of opportunities that would otherwise be lost because of lack of funds. Save for your future NOW—and teach your youngsters to SAVE. Ask about our bank-by-mail plan.
